ケイシ パーク

This was a project about Japanese slang, originally shown as a video with multiple terms/examples made in the style of Persona 5. I have opted to include screenshot examples of the replicated formats vs. putting the entire video as the video included pictures of classmates, which I don't feel comfortable posting online without their consent.

The image of myself [on the right] was modified from the main character, Akira, and my friend [on the left] is modified from Ryuuji. To modify these, I erased parts of the original assets and drew a replication of the artstyle to fit our different appearances.

For the fonts, I used Persona's font and then manually replicated the irregular angled border they use where applicable (like the title page)
